(KRON) — Coastal areas near Aptos in Santa Cruz County are experiencing flooding Thursday morning as a high surf warning and high tides impact Central and Northern California. An evacuation warning was issued near Seacliff State Beach, according to Santa Cruz County officials.

The evacuation warning was issued for zone CTL-E048 at around 8:30 a.m., which is near Seacliff State Beach in Aptos. “Be prepared to leave should an evacuation order be issued,” Santa Cruz County said. County officials urge residents to know their zone through the Zonehaven website.

Pajaro Dunes, zone CRZ-E070, was added to the evacuation warning just after 10 a.m., according to Santa Cruz County officials.

A temporary evacuation point has been set up at New Brighton Middle School on 250 Washburn Avenue in Capitola. There are signs at the school and water and power are available, officials said.
